in this precise and provocative treatise julie jung augments the understanding and teaching of revision by arguing that the process should entail changing attitudes rather than simply changing texts revisionary rhetoric feminist pedagogy and multigenre texts proposes and demonstrates alternative ways of reading writing and teaching that hear silences in such a way as to generate personal pedagogical and professional revisions as both a challenge to prevailing revision pedagogies and an elaboration of contemporary feminist rhetorics the volume encourages students and instructors to examine their identities as scholars of rhetoric and composition and to question how and why revision is taught jung analyzes feminist texts to identify a revisionary rhetoric that is at its core most concerned with creating a space in which to engage productively with issues of difference this synthesis of feminist theory and revision studies yields a pedagogically useful definition of feminist rhetoric through which jung examines the insights afforded by multigenre texts in various related contexts the academic essay the discipline of rhetoric and composition studies feminist composition and the subfields of english studies including rhetoric and composition literature and creative writing jung illustrates how multigenre texts demand innovative methods of inquiry because they do not fit the conventions of any single genre because genre is inextricably tied to the construction of social identity she explains multigenre texts also offer a means for understanding and revising disciplinary identity boldly making a case for the revisionary power of multigenre texts jung retheorizes revision as a process of disrupting textual clarity so that differences can be identified contended with and perhaps understood revisionary rhetoric feminist pedagogy and multigenre texts makes great strides towards defining feminist rhetoric and ascertaining how revision can be theorized not just practiced jung also provides a multigenre epilogue that explores the usefulness of reconceiving revision as a progression towards wholeness rather than perfection understanding rhetoric a guide to critical reading and argumentation is a composition textbook that outlines three essential skills rhetoric argument and source based writing geared towards newcomers and advanced students alike though comprehensive in its coverage the book s focus is a simple one how to move beyond a gut reaction while reading to an articulation of what is effective and what is not while explicitly answering the most important question of why this text gets at this central concern in two fundamental ways first the text teaches composition as a cumulative process coaching you how to question challenge and expand on not just the readings you hold in your hands but also how to interrogate the internal processes of writing and thinking the book s blend of composition methods detail the cross point of product and process to turn reading and writing from a matter of coming up with answers to questions to learning what type of questions need to be asked in the first place the right questions the text argues are fundamentally rhetorical in nature second the content of the practice based chapters is framed into a larger mesh of intellectual history to show how the writing and thinking you are doing today is continuous with a long history of writing instruction that goes back to the ancient world this book provides equal representation from classical and contemporary theory with the recognition that theory cannot be fully grasped without practice and practice cannot be fully understood without its theoretical antecedent after all you can't write outside the box until you know where the box is and what it looks like a student's avatar navigates a virtual world and communicates the desires emotions and fears of its creator yet how can her writing instructor interpret this form of meaningmaking today multiple modes of communication and information technology are challenging pedagogies in composition and across the disciplines writing instructors grapple with incorporating new forms into their curriculums and relating them to established literary practices administrators confront the application of new technologies to the restructuring of courses and the classroom itself multimodal literacies and emerging genres examines the possibilities challenges and realities of multimodal composition as an effective means of communication the chapters view the ways that writing instructors and their students are exploring the spaces where communication occurs while also asking what else is possible the genres of film audio photography graphics speeches storyboards powerpoint presentations virtual environments written works and others are investigated to discern both their capabilities and limitations the contributors highlight the responsibility of instructors to guide students in the consideration of their audience and ethical responsibility while also maintaining the ability to speak well additionally they focus on the need for programmatic changes and a shift in institutional philosophy to close a possible digital divide and remain relevant in digital and global economies embracing and advancing multimodal communication is essential to both higher education and students the contributors therefore call for the examination of how writing programs faculty and administrators are responding to change and how the many purposes writing serves can effectively converge within composition curricula this study of anglo american legal discourse is the first comprehensive discourse analysis of american legal language in its prototypical setting the trial by jury with ethnographic data gathered in a civil jury trial the book compares the discourse processing of the legal participants and the lay jurors in the trial this study examining an entire trial finds that it is constraints at the level of a foucauldian discursive formation that prevent lay understanding those constraints include the allocation of narrative speaking roles primarily to legal speakers in genres in which no sworn evidence is given the suppression of narrative in ordinary witnesses a set of restraints on witnesses use of certain categories of evidentials the legal topic originating in textual authority unknown to the lay participants specific distribution of verb forms by legal genre and a linguistic burden accompanying the legal burden of proof in the requirement that the lawyer of the moving party also use and explain technical legal terms to the jury at the same time as he or she presents evidence all of these factors contribute to the incomprehensibility of legal discourse to lay auditors resulting in the jury making their decision based on a commonsense script of the events precipitating the trial the study concludes by arguing for a foucauldian discourse analysis of institutional languages a social theory powerful enough to account for the power and tenacity of these languages where traditional linguistic explanation has failed leading a burgeoning self critical moment in composition studies and writing program administration postcomposition is a fundamental reconsideration of the field that attempts to shift the focus away from pedagogy and writing subjects and toward writing itself in this forceful and reasoned critique of many of the primary tenets and widely accepted institutional structures of composition studies sidney i dobrin delivers a series of shocks to the system meant to disrupt the pedagogical imperative and move beyond the existing limits of the discipline dobrin evaluates the current state of composition studies underscoring the difference between composition and writing and arguing that the field's focus on the administration of writing students and its historically imposed prohibition on theory greatly limit what can be understood about writing instead he envisions a more significant approach to writing one that questions the field's conservative allegiance to subject and administration and reconsiders writing as spatial and ecological using concepts from ecocomposition spatial theory network theory complexity theory and systems theory postcomposition lays the groundwork for a networked theory of writing and advocates the abandonment of administration as a useful part of the field he also challenges the usefulness of rhetoric in writing studies showing how writing exceeds rhetoric postcomposition is a detailed consideration of how posthumanism affects the field's understanding of subjectivity it also tears at the seams of the contingent labor problem as he articulates his own frustrations with the conservatism of composition studies and builds on previous critiques of the discipline dobrin stages a courageous and inevitably polemical intellectual challenge to the entrenched ideas and assumptions that have defined composition studies
